A FAMILY MATTER

For almost 170 years

From the young potter Jacques Henry in 1850 to Emile and then Jean-Baptiste Henry, six generations have passed the torch from father to son, each driven by two passions: ceramics and home cooking.

MADE IN FRANCE

— Emile Henry have always been committed to French craftsmanship. They remain true to their historic location in Marcigny, deep in the heart of Burgundy, and they are proud to contribute to maintaining traditional skills as well as jobs.

QUALITY AT HEART

— Emile Henry know that in order to please and satisfy, their dishes must be of the highest quality.

In their laboratory, their engineers work on the thermal and mechanical shock resistance of their ceramics.

IN THE KITCHEN

---

The Emile Henry storage bowls and pots rely on our grandmothers' tricks to help keep food fresher for longer, naturally.

More than just a handed-down trick, the clever design of the Large Storage Bowl offers an elegant presentation of beautiful fruit on the top, while onions and potatoes are safely kept out of sight, drafts and light.

The same goes for the Garlic Pot which will help prevent garlic and shallots from sprouting. And the Salt Cellar helps keep coarse salt or granulated sugar from clumping—away from the dust but always handy.
